MANY MATTERS CLAIM COUNCIL'S ATTENTION AT MONDAY'S MEETING

NUMEROUS PETITIONS PRESENTED — ORDINANCES PASS THIRD READING — OSBORNE OPPOSES WATER SALE POLICY.

The first 1915 stated meeting of the Daytona city council, held on Monday night, was a rather busy one. In attendance were President Schmidt, Aldermen Conrad, O'Brien, Smith, Stevens and Klock. Clerk Porter read the rather voluminous minutes of the several meetings held during the past month, and after these were considered and adopted, 19 claims against the city, amounting to $1,261.11, were approved and ordered paid.

A petition from persons owning property in that locality asked that South Palmetto avenue be extended from Bellevue to Fremont, and that the said Palmetto avenue be shelled or otherwise hard surfaced. The petition was referred to the street committee.

A number of colored citizens presented a petition asking that steps be taken to require property owners on Second street, between Ridgewood and the Daytona Industrial school, to construct sidewalks. A special ordinance will be required before the prayer can be granted, and the matter was referred to the proper committee.

Ninety-one petitioners asked for an order permitting the Central of Florida Railway company to "extend its line and tracks down" Cypress street, west to Myrtle; Myrtle south to Second avenue; Second avenue to Pine or Second street; Second street to Magnolia." The petition was referred to President Sholtz of the C. of Fla. Co.

A bond in the sum of $10,000 was filed by Michael Sholtz, as a guarantee that he and his associates will comply in all respects with the terms of the recently granted electric franchise. The bond was formally accepted.

Secretary Conant, of the board of public works, read a report which contained a summary of the board's acts and achievements during the year just past. The report was referred to the finance committee.

Mayor Titus reported that, acting in accordance with instructions from the council, he had employed a night watchman Jesse Creech for the months of January, February and March, at a salary of $60.00 per month, which amount has been guaranteed by popular subscription. The mayor recommended that the watchman be paid $15.00 additional per month out of the public treasury. It was unanimously thus ordered.

The following ordinances were taken up and unanimously passed on their third reading:

TURKS MAKING AMENDS TO ITALY; CRISIS PAST

ROME, JAN. 12.—IT WAS ANNOUNCED TODAY THAT THE HODEIDA INCIDENT, WHICH CAUSED THE CRISIS BETWEEN ITALY AND TURKEY, HAS BEEN PRACTICALLY SETTLED. THE FLEET OF ITALIAN WARSHIPS WHICH SAILED FROM TARANTO HAS BEEN RECALLED BY WIRELESS. THE TURKISH AUTHORITIES ARE NOW INVESTIGATING THE RAID MADE ON THE ITALIAN CONSULATE AT HODEIDA.

ADMINISTRATION WILL SPEAK FOR ITSELF ON SHIPPING CONTROVERSY

WASHINGTON, JAN. 12.—THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT HAS NOT YET FORMULATED A PLAN CONCERNING ITS PROBABLE REPLY TO THE BRITISH NOTE RELATING TO THIS COUNTRY'S PROTEST AGAINST INTERFERENCE WITH NEUTRAL SHIPPING. PRESIDENT WILSON MADE IT CLEAR TODAY THAT ALL REPORTS TO THE EFFECT THAT THE ADMINISTRATION IS DISSATISFIED WITH THE BRITISH REPLY ARE ENTIRELY UNFOUNDED. HE DECLARED THAT NOBODY HAS A RIGHT TO SPEAK FOR HIM OR FOR THE ADMINISTRATION AT PRESENT. THERE WILL BE NO REPLY UNTIL THE FULL TEXT OF THE BRITISH NOTE IS GIVEN AMPLE CONSIDERATION. OTHER COMMUNICATIONS SETTING FORTH GREAT BRITAIN'S POSITION ON CONTRABAND ARE EXPECTED.

NATIONAL CAPITAL ABOUT TO BECOME A "DRY" CITY

WASHINGTON, JAN. 12.—HOKE SMITH OF GEORGIA INTRODUCED IN THE SENATE A MOTION TO REFER TO THE RULES COMMITTEE FOR SPECIAL RULE THE SHEPPARD RESOLUTION PROVIDING FOR THE ABOLITION OF SALOONS IN THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA. THE MOTION WAS ADOPTED BY A VOTE OF 37 TO 34. THIS INDICATES THAT THE DISTRICT IS ALMOST CERTAIN TO SOON BE IN THE DRY COLUMN. THE HOUSE ADOPTED THE AMENDMENT BY AN OVER TWO-TO-ONE VOTE.

MYSTERY AND THRILLS WEDNESDAY EVENING

"WITHIN THE LAW" TO BE PRESENTED BY CLEVER COMPANY —MUSICAL COMEDY FRIDAY NIGHT.

Introducing to the stage for the first time smokeless powder and Maxim silencer, Bayard Veiller's new play of mystery and thrills, "Within the Law," which the American Play company is to present at the New Daytona theatre on Wednesday, January 13th, warrants the designation given it by New York critics as a "drama of the minute." These modern instruments of violence add greatly to the mystery which the police are called upon to solve in the play. "Within the Law" is now in its second year in New York and promises to hold the record for long runs of an American play. A very clever cast of players will present the play in Daytona.

Friday, January 15th, the attraction at the theatre will be the original Weber theatre production of the well known musical comedy "Alma, Where Do You Live?" With a large company composed largely of pretty girls, with much special scenery, handsome costumes, and 15 catchy musical numbers "Alma," being the first big musical comedy here in some time, is bound to please.

A Christmas Wedding

By OSCAR COX

Jim Huggins drove a mule, and yet he was a grade higher than a mule driver. What put Jim up a peg was the fact that his mule towed a canal boat. Jim was not especially proud of his mule, but he was very proud of his boat. He could tie up nights, picket his mule and turn into the luxurious quarters in the stern for a good sleep.

Most of the other boats on that canal contained families. Jim was a lone bachelor, and when he passed other boats and saw clothes hanging out to dry he felt more lonely than ever, and when he saw dirty faced children looking at him out of the stern windows it made him positively homesick.

The hardest days for Jim to get through were holidays. There was one Christmas that he kept the towpath all day to drive away the blues. And even then he couldn't help seeing the windows [illegible] his route hung with ever[illegible] children running about [illegible] one another the toys that Santa Claus had brought them.

There was a small house a short distance from the canal in which there lived an old woman. She kept chickens, a cow and several pigs. Jim had no interest in the place until one day when he was passing with his boat a comely young woman emerged from the house with a bucket in her hand and dumped the contents into the pig sty. Jim passed out of sight of the red cheeked girl with a bucket to the music of grunting pigs.

Men have fallen in love to the sound of a lute. Probably their refined natures could not have fallen into the same condition to the grunting of pigs struggling for swill. But Jim was not a gentleman; he was a mule driver. At any rate, that's exactly what he did. His lonely heart yearned for that red cheeked girl, and love was born within him on the same principle that it is born in a man listening to a lute.

As Jim went back and forth on the towpath whenever he passed that house he looked for the girl with the red cheeks. One day he reached the place just as she stepped out into the yard. Naturally, seeing a boat moving by, she looked at it. Then, seeing Jim, she looked at him. He was only a man driving a mule attached to a canalboat, but perhaps she was sighing for a mate, just as Jim was. At any rate, she didn't look away till she had noticed an admiring look on Jim's honest, but homely, face. As he passed on she continued to look at him.

The next time she saw the boat go by it was in the late fall, but the ice had not closed navigation. Jim had an overcoat buttoned tight around him and was smoking a short pipe. On the deck of his boat was a board propped up to show chalked letters, "Christmas is comin'."

How did that girl know that this was a message for her? Maybe she didn't, but the next time Jim passed the house he saw chalked on the roof of the pigsty, "Hope you'll enjoy it."

The ice was broken—not in the canal, but the ice of nonacquaintance between these two piners for each other. The next passing message was, "How would you like to spend it on a canalboat?" To which was made a reply, "Just fine."

Much less has been taken for a proposal of marriage and an acceptance. The singular part of it is that the contract in this case was made before these two had a closer view of each other than a hundred yards. Nevertheless Jim regarded the matter settled, and his heart was overjoyed that he would not have to spend the coming Christmas on the towpath to keep from being lonely.

His next message was "Christmas eve?" To which he received a reply, "Isn't that sudden?" On seeing this loving message chalked in beautiful pure white letters on the roof of the pigsty Jim halted his mule, sat down on the deck of his boat with his legs dangling over the side and waited for a sight of his ladylove. Presently she appeared at a window and threw him a kiss. He was not satisfied with this and waited longer, but she did not appear again. Turning the board over he chalked on the other side, "Be ready Christmas eve." Having waited till he felt sure she had seen his message, he drove on.

The day before Christmas Jim loaded up at the terminal with Christmas viands and on his way out again called on a parson living beside a church that he had often noticed near the girl's house. The parson promised to be on hand on Christmas eve.

Mind you, Jim was taking it all on faith. He didn't know what the girl would do, but he said that he "kind o' reckoned she would." Dusk was falling on Christmas eve when Jim's boat, containing a bridal-Christmas outfit, stopped opposite the girl's house. He and the parson went there and found her in her best dress. Jim had on a store suit, and at nearer view the two were mutually pleased. The old woman gave Jim a shrewd glance and was evidently satisfied. The party sat down to a supper for which a chicken had been killed, and after the dishes were washed and put away the ceremony was performed. When the old woman bade the bride goodby she said:

"I reckoned when I tuk you out o' the poorhouse them red cheeks would git you a home."

Jim and his bride passed a merry Christmas in their apartments on the canalboat.

Dusk was falling on Christmas eve when Jim' home, containing a bridal-Christma outfit, stopped opposite the girl's home He and the parson went there an found her in her best dress. Jim ha on a store suit, and at nearer view th two were mutually pleased. The old woman gave Jim a shrewd glance an was evidently satisfied. The party sat down to a supper for which a chicken had been killed, and after the dishes were washed and put away the ceremony was performed. When the old woman bade the bride goodby she said:

"I reckoned when I tuk you out o' the poorhouse them red cheeks would git you a home."

Jim and his bride passed a merry Christmas in their apartments on the canalboat.

ADMIRAL MADDEN

Admiral Sir Charles Edward Madden, C. V. O., who commands the Third cruiser squadron of the British navy. He was born in 1868.

GERMANS ADVISED TO SAVE

Commerce Minister Warns People to Be Sparing With Their Grain.

Paris.—The Amsterdam Handelsblad says the Prussian minister of commerce has issued a proclamation which says that although Germany is well provided with grain the people should not waste it.

"The enemy," the minister says, "are trying to starve Germany as if it were a fortress. Therefore be sparing of your bread. Remember that the soldiers would be glad to have on the field of battle the bread you waste."

WOMAN GETS BELGIAN HONOR

Order of Leopold Is Conferred on Nurse Who Braved Shot and Shell.

Havre.—The order of Leopold is conferred on Mlle. Renaudiere of Schaerbeek for bravery under fire while serving with the Red Cross ambulance. In a number of difficult fights Mlle. Renaudiere went out on the field to seek and bring in Belgian wounded in defiance of shot and shell. Her name now appears as chevalier of the Order of Leopold on the war office records by order of King Albert.

GIRL JOINS GERMAN ARMY

She Is Discovered and Sent to Train for a Hospital Nurse.

Paris.—Among the recruits at Konitz, in West Prussia, a story here has it, was one handsome youth of thirteen, who got on very well with the preliminary training and rifle practice. But one day it was discovered that the youth was a girl. She vainly implored the authorities to allow her to go to the front, but was sent to Danzig to train as a hospital nurse.

Truly Remarkable Family.

A laborer's remarkable record surprised the Baltinglass (County Wicklow, Ireland) rural council when applications for cottages were being discussed. It was stated that one of the applicants, John Murphy, had been married five times, and has 41 children. Murphy proudly asserted that his oldest "child" was aged fifty, and the youngest a baby, and all the family were fed on rabbits.

Says Blue Is Best.

Of all colors for a bedroom, perhaps blue is the best. A plain striped blue paper or one having only a very slight pattern scarcely discernible at first sight, surmounting a dado of deep full blue, an ivory white or cream-tinted ceiling and plain frieze complete the scheme of color, with the woodwork stained and polished or painted and lightly varnished, almost black. Nothing gives so "toney" an effect as subdued but clear color, coming up against black. Such an effect in decoration seems to give additional value to every object in a room so decorated; the pictures, ornaments, curtains and draperies, silverware, mirrors, etc., seem to have quality which is not apparent when objects are seen in strong light, against practically white walls.

SALUTATORY.

In assuming the business and reportorial management of the Daytona Beach and Seabreeze department of the Daily News, I desire first of all to gain the confidence of my constituency. This cannot be accomplished in a day or a week, but before the season of 1915 draws to a close I hope to have grasped the hand of every well-meaning citizen in the twin cities, thereby forming an individual acquaintanceship that will be lasting and sincere.

In addition to publishing all the local happenings, the peninsula department will serve as an advertising medium through which commercial enterprises in Daytona Beach and Seabreeze will be given an opportunity to bring their wares to the attention of the reading public direct.

The circulation of the Daily News is at present growing by leaps and bounds, which is pretty good proof that the paper is in demand in one locality as well as another. In reaching out to Daytona Beach and Seabreeze it is the object of the Daily News to increase its circulation on the peninsula to such an extent as to make the paper a daily visitor in every home. This can be done with a little cooperation on the part of those already taking it, and by enlisting "boosters" and ignoring "knockers," it's "dollars to doughnuts" that the peninsula department will be a big success.

Sincerely,
SIDNEY PENDELL.

Communal Life of Ants.

The most complete communal life is that of ants. They make other ants serve as slaves. Some of them have developed into door tenders. They have hard heads, with which they plug up entrances. Friendly ants announce their presence by stroking the heads in a peculiar way, giving the password, as it were, and then are admitted. These ants even raise a type of mushroom on which they live.

Amateur Couldn't Hurt Him.

Testy Old Woman—"There now! I guess you won't go around poking your nose into other people's business after the rubbing I just gave you." Reporter—"Well, don't get proud about it, madam; you didn't hurt my feelings much. I've been insulted by experts."—Life.

SEABREEZE AND DAYTONA BEACH

Those rooms should be rented; that furnished house let. Try a want ad in this department.

Orders for job printing received at this office will be promptly executed and delivered to your address.

Miss E. J. Culler, Nashville, Tenn., was among this week's arrivals, and is season guest of Miss S. E. Russell, on North Halifax avenue.

If the young lady who has been advocating state organization of tourists will call at this office she may obtain a little cooperation along that line.

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. W. Gardiner, of St. Paul, Minn., and Seabreeze, arrived Saturday and have opened their cottage on Glenview boulevard for the season.

Mrs. Serl came in Monday afternoon from Carthage, Mo., and joined her husband, Rev. E. W. Serl, at the home of Mrs. Alice G. Godsmark, on North Halifax avenue.

If you have a furnished house to rent, or a spare room that might be bringing in a few extra dollars every week, make it known by inserting an ad. in this department.

Mr. and Mrs. F. L. McKeel and family arrived this week from Morgantown, W. Va., and are again at the Swift cottage, where they have passed the two previous seasons.

Dwight Smith, professor of voice culture, of Cincinnati, and other cities, arrived here last week to spend the season. He is a friend of R. T. Butler and was his house guest for a few days.

Miss Caldwell and Miss Hall, members of the ladies' orchestra which is furnishing entertainment at the Nautilus casino, have taken rooms with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Gillett, on North Halifax avenue.

Mrs. Harlan H. Johnston, children and maid arrived the latter part of last week to spend the winter in apartments in the Williams' block, Ocean boulevard. Mrs. Johnston and family spent last season in one of the Ettinger cottages.

Karl Ender, a local tonsorial artist, was a passenger of Ruth Law's Sunday. It is said that he lost his breath when the aeroplane left terra firma and did not regain it until he reached the ground. If this be true it was a "close shave" for Ender.

Miss Lena Tomlinson, an expert stenographer and typewriter, will assist J. E. D. Graves in his real estate and insurance office, corner Seabreeze avenue and Live Oak, this winter. Persons requiring the services of Miss Tomlinson will find her at the above address.

Mrs. Alice Godfrey, of Jackson, Mich., relative of Mrs. J. E. Williams and J. H. Dates, was among the Thursday arrivals, and was house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Williams for a few days before locating for the season at the J. F. Abercrombie home on North Halifax avenue.

Miss Margaret Farrell and her cousin, Miss Beatrice Deitrich, who spent the mid-winter vacation with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. L. Farrell, at their winter home on North Halifax avenue, returned to Philadelphia the latter part of last week to resume their college work.

Mrs. John Bianchi, who spent a couple of weeks at home at the Fremont, on Ocean boulevard, has opened her winter home on the corner of Oakridge boulevard and North Halifax avenue for the season. Her son, H. F. Bianchi, of New York, arrived Wednesday and will be with his mother for a few weeks' vacation. Mrs. Bianchi is also enjoying the company of a long time friend, Miss E. K. Robbins, of Germantown, Pa., who came in the latter part of the week and will spend the winter with Mrs. Bianchi.

ARRIVE FOR SEASON: WILL BUILD BUNGALOW

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. H. Johnson and children, of Endicott, N. Y., arrived last Friday and are pleasantly domiciled for the season in their attractive new home on Peninsula drive.

Mr. Johnson has just closed a deal for the purchase of two lots opposite the Tourist church, Glenview boulevard, and will erect a cottage on one of the lots for the occupancy of his chauffeur and family.

Editor and Mrs. Charles H. Walton, of Titusville, were Clarendon guests over Sunday, having come up the night before to be present at the annual ball and dinner. Like all newspaper editors in small cities, Mr. Walton is the "Big Noise" in Titusville.

Mrs. Tincher and little son, John, arrived Saturday from Illinois, and Mrs. Abell, Mrs. Tincher's mother, at her beautiful new home on North Halifax avenue. Mrs. Tincher was guest at the Princess Issena for a number of seasons, and is receiving a cordial welcome from numerous friends.

Herbert George, of Denver, Colo., prominent politician and editor of George's Weekly, writing to friends here recently, stated that he expected to spend part of the season in Seabreeze. Mr. George spent several seasons here in the flourishing days of the City Beautiful colony, and was a great admirer of Helen Wilmans and Col. C. C. Post.

Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Webster of Minneapolis, Minn., arrived Sunday and are in temporary possession of the Martin cottage on Ocean boulevard, until they find suitable accommodations. Mr. and Mrs. Webster are friends of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Longyear, who have leased the Martin cottage for the winter, and Mrs. Longyear will join the Websters here in a few days.

Miss Gertrude Mims, who is taking her midwinter vacation in Florida, and has been with her youngest sister, Mrs. H. E. Wakefield, and family, at their home on Oakridge avenue, left Monday afternoon for Titusville to visit Mrs. Kennedy, another sister, before returning to Atlanta, Ga., where she is in the millinery business. Miss Mims has a charming personality and made many friends during her stay in Seabreeze.

Daily Thought.

Accustom yourself to master and overcome things of difficulty, for, if you observe, the left hand for want of practice is insignificant, and not adapted to general business, yet it holds the bridle better than the right from constant use.—Pliny.

CIGARETTES FOR GERMANS

Before going into the trenches the German soldiers are supplied with heavy socks and mittens and plenty of tobacco. A Red Cross nurse is here seen handing out the highly prized tobacco in the form of cigarettes.

AGED SINGER IS A HERO

Will Be Made Second Lieutenant by France as Reward for Bravery Under Fire.

Paris.—Maurice Renaud, the singer, who enlisted despite the fact that he was fifty-three years of age, is about to be promoted to a sub-lieutenancy for bravery under fire. Renaud recently took part in an improvised concert in a church in a Lorraine town which had just been evacuated by the Germans. He sang the evening star song from "Tannhauser," with patriotic words substituted for those of Wagner.

ARTISTS TO REWARD HELP

Medallions Will Be Sent to Americans Who Helped in Time of Warfare.

Paris.—The French artists' fraternity will cast a bronze medallion as a souvenir of the spirit and generous assistance given to it by Americans. The artist Antonin has made a design showing benevolence stretching its hand to the fraternity and welcoming the orphans of artists and sculptors and below the cathedral at Reims on fire. The first medallion struck off will be sent to Mrs. Robert Herrick, wife of the former American ambassador.

Grateful Suburbanites.

Towne—"Do you make your cook pay for what she breaks?" Suburbs (in amazement)—"Make her pay? I should say not! Why, every month, besides paying her salary, we reward her liberally for what she didn't break!"

Many Jacks.

Jack is not only a boy's name. It is applied to a flower—"Jack in the pulpit." "Jack Frost" means the cold, biting winds, and a "jack" is a machine to lift heavy weights. Then there are a "boot jack" for removing boots from the feet; a "smoke jack" to turn a spit; a "jackanapes," applied to a saucy person; "Jack Tar," a common sailor, and a "jacket" a small coat. "Jackstay" is a rail used on a boat to which to fasten sails. "Jackstone" is a pebble piece used in the game of that name; "jackstraw" is a scarecrow and "jackwood" is wood of the jack used in cabinet work.

FIGHT OVER TWO-CENT R. R. RATE IN KANSAS

TOPEKA, Kans., Jan. 12. — Senator J. M. Davis will make an effort to head off the railroads of Kansas in their hope to get authority through the utilities commission to increase passenger rates, by legislative action. He will introduce a bill fixing two cents a mile as the maximum passenger rate in the state, in the legislature which convened today. If this bill should be enacted into a law the utilities commission would be without jurisdiction to further consider the application for authority to increase the rates. Such a situation now exists in Nebraska where the utilities commission has dismissed such an application as the railroads have filed in Kansas, for the reason that under the law passenger rates may not legally exceed two cents a mile.

The railroads will of course, resist efforts to enact a two-cent fare law this winter, claiming that they are in position to show to a utilities commission that the present rates are too low for fairness. They also claim that the advent of the automobile into general use for cross country driving has caused a large decrease in local passenger earnings.

HOOSIER CLUB SECRETARY EXPECTED HERE NEXT WEEK

Benford Deacon, secretary of the Daytona board of trade, has just received from William Sydnor Gilbreath, secretary of the Hoosier Motor club, of Indianapolis, a letter stating that he expects to stop here for a few days, shortly after the conclusion of the boat races at Miami, where Mr. Gilbreath now is. It is not unlikely that a party of Daytona motorists will meet him at Titusville. The Hoosier Motor club is an organization for the promotion of interest in the building of better public highways, and Mr. Gilbreath is said to have few peers as a road expert in America.

EDUCATIONAL POULTRY SHOW IN BOSTON

BOSTON, Jan. 12. — The educational part of the Massachusetts poultry show at the Massachusetts Agricultural college which opened today for one week's exhibition excels anything heretofore attempted. It shows a lay-out for a ten-acre poultry plant, occupying 200 square feet. The charts, drawings, sample coops, model poultry houses, etc., are more extensive than ever before. There will be demonstrations of sticking, chinning and picking. There will be moving pictures each evening showing views of the work in poultry investigations on the United States Government farm in Maryland, including a breeding pen of single comb white Leghorns; setting up and operating an incubator; the development of the chick in the shell from the first to the twentieth day; toe-marking and banding the chickens; natural incubation and brooding, including preparing nests for setting hens; artificial brooding, including heating and cleaning the brooder and caring for the chickens; removing the chickens to colony houses; feeding chickens on range; sprouting oats for green feed; separating the cockerels from the pullets; clearing the poultry houses and gathering the eggs.

PUBLIC SERVICE CO. ALLEGES ILLEGALITY

PROTEST FILED WITH MUNICIPAL COUNCIL CHARGES THAT THREE INELIGIBLE PERSONS PARTICIPATED IN ELECTION.

At the meeting of the city council, on Monday evening, the Daytona Public Service company, through Attorney F. W. Pope, filed a protest against the acceptance or canvass of the returns of the recent election held for the purpose of ratifying or rejecting the Sholtz franchise ordinance, and which was ratified by a vote of 250 to 42. Following is a verbatim copy of the Public Service company's protest:

"January 11, 1915.

"To the Honorable City Council,
"Daytona, Florida.

"Gentlemen: The Daytona Public Service company, as a taxpayer of the city of Daytona, hereby protests against the acceptance or canvass of the returns of the election had in this city on the 30th day of December, 1914, when a vote was taken as to the granting to Michael Sholtz, et al, a franchise, because of the illegality of votes cast at said election, said illegality consisting of the voting in the City of Daytona, Florida, by three men who were not residents of said city.

"Very truly yours,
"DAYTONA PUBLIC SERVICE CO.
"By F. W. Pope, Attorney."

Acting on the advice of City Attorney Oakes, the council unanimously decided to receive the communication and place it on file, but the bond of Mr. Sholtz was accepted, thus ratifying the election returns.

Relieving Headache.

Headaches caused by worry or exhaustion may be relieved by very simple means. If possible, put on loose clothing, loosen the hair and supply yourself with a bowl of hot water and several towels. Wet the towels in the hot water and apply back of the ears and to the base of the brain. Change these often and you will soon find relief. A hot foot bath hastens the process.

REGAL CAR COLLIDES WITH STEVENS' PACKARD

A Mr. Goldsmith, who was touring through to Titusville in a Regal car, accompanied by his family, smashed into Alderman Rolland E. Stevens' Packard, Sunday, at the intersection of Ridgewood avenue and the road to the big tree. Mr. Stevens was turning into Ridgewood and stopped when he saw the other car in order to give it room to pass on the east side of the road, but Mr. Goldsmith failed to do so and crashed into the Stevens car, bending the fender, running board and tool box and disabling his own car. Mr. Stevens was accompanied by Archie McDonald.

Mr. Goldsmith and family returned to Daytona with Mr. Stevens and Mr. Goldsmith remained to look after his car while his wife and baby proceeded by train to Titusville.

PROMINENT PEOPLE WEDDED IN DAYTONA

MRS. DORA B. BANTA AND CHAS. S. MILLS MARRIED AT PRINCE GEORGE HOTEL AT 2 O'CLOCK THIS AFTERNOON.

Mrs. Dora B. Banta and Charles S. Mills were united in marriage at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon at the Prince George hotel, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. Robert McKay, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church of this city.

The ceremony took place in the music room of the hotel, which had been beautifully decorated for the event with a profusion of flowers and greenery. Only relatives and a few close friends of the couple were present.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served and Mr. and Mrs. Mills later completed arrangements to leave by train at 3:19 for New York, where they will make their home, stopping enroute north at various places.

Mr. Mills, who came to Daytona recently and has been a guest at the Prince George, is at the head of the efficiency department of the American Type Founders company, of Jersey City, N. J.

The bride, who is well known to many Daytonians, having visited here in other seasons, is Mrs. W. W. Hilyard's mother, and is associated with Mr. Hilyard in the ownership and management of the Bristol hotel at Asbury Park, N. J.

Orators a Poor Second.

Beyond a doubt the telephone has conferred more benefits upon mankind than all the political orators that ever talked through their hats.

MANY MATTERS CLAIM COUNCIL'S ATTENTION

An ordinance regulating the building of curbings and specifying the width of roadways of streets.

An ordinance repealing the old one relating to the construction and placing of curbings.

An ordinance prohibiting the use on the streets of horns, bells, megaphones, etc., for advertising purposes.

An ordinance authorizing the council to levy special taxes not in excess of eight mills, for the purpose of raising funds with which to pay interest on outstanding bonds and for the creation of a sinking fund.

An ordinance relating to the prevention of nuisances.

David Shultz, one of the persons recently removed from the Daytona voters' list, stated that he is a bona fide citizen of Daytona and asked that his name be restored to the list. His request was granted.

President Joseph Osborne, of the board of public works, directed attention to the fact that the council had some time ago forbidden the sale of water to non-residents of the city. Mr. Osborne stated that the order had, of course, been respected, but added that he did not endorse the council's action in this particular. He further stated that he had been advised by a Jacksonville attorney that the city of Daytona has the right, under its charter, to sell water to persons outside of the city, providing they will make the necessary pipe connections and comply with other stipulated conditions. Alderman Conrad replied that the council had been otherwise counseled by the designated city attorney and others. On motion of Councilman Stevens the matter was referred to a committee composed of Messrs. Conrad, Stevens and Smith, who will endeavor to determine what is the proper course to take, and make recommendations accordingly.

Elizabeth Fry.

Elizabeth Fry's great work for prison reform was all done after her marriage. It was in 1813 that she paid her first and memorable visit to Newgate prison, and in 1817 formed the Association for the Improvement of Female Prisoners in Newgate, which attracted such widespread interest. Her efforts were not confined to Great Britain, many continental prisons being the better for her labors.

Proper Care of the Eye.

According to Dr. Woods Hutchinson, the common cause of homeliness or unattractiveness in the eye is redness, either of the eyeballs themselves or of the lids. This is what biologists call an acquired, not an inherited, condition, and is caused either by the presence of disease and filth germs or by eye strain. The trouble can be prevented by absolute cleanliness and by fitting the eyes with proper glasses.

JOHN ANDERSON HIGHWAY CRITICISED

THOROUGHFARE IN VERY BAD CONDITION SOUTH OF ST. AUGUSTINE — UNUSUAL RAINS AT THIS SEASON THE CAUSE.

F. S. Bryan and J. W. Barre, who came to Daytona recently by automobile over the John Anderson highway, are inclined to think that the roads of St. Johns county are giving Florida a black eye.

There seems to be an especially boggy place in the road about 16 miles south of St. Augustine and the cars of both gentlemen were stuck in the sand at that point. When they succeeded in getting out and came on to Daytona there were four other cars still in the sand, one of them with a burst cylinder and the others with broken springs.

Mr. Bryan, who is from Boston, Mass., is a guest at the Austin hotel, while Mr. Barre, who is a Jacksonville man, stopped only temporarily, continuing his journey to Titusville where he has property interests.

Mr. Barre, who is familiar with the roads of this section, frequently making the trip between Jacksonville and points down the coast, seems to be of the opinion that the bad places in the highway could be improved at a very little cost if properly looked after, but it must be borne in mind that the unusually heavy and continuous rains which have recently prevailed in this section are principally to blame for the miserable condition of the roads, coupled as they are with the heavier travel of the winter season. In a normal season the winters of this section are bright and dry, the rains coming in the summer months when the roads are much less traveled.

Might Cut It That Way.

An absent-minded husband was asked by his wife to stop in a store on his way downtown and buy her three articles of feminine wear. Of course when he reached the store he had forgotten what they were. So the young clerk behind the first counter was amazed to hear: "Excuse me; my wife told me to come in here and get her some things to wear and I've forgotten what they are. Would you mind naming over a few things?"

The Change.

"It used to be," declared old Brother Bomberday, "dat when Brudder Manley and his wife was uh-squabblin' dey had it up and down like a seesaw, sometimes one of 'em gittin' de best of it and den de yuther. But now, bless goodness, dey dess goes 'round and 'round like a merry-go-round, and nobody kin prognosticate which is ahead."—Puck.

Running the Blockade

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

Port Royal, South Carolina, is a fine harbor. In that region are many islands lying between the mainland and the ocean on which is produced what is called sea island cotton, an article of very superior grade. When the war between the states opened and the southern ports were blockaded this was a favorite point for running the blockade with cargoes of this valuable cotton. Where it was grown it was worthless; beyond the Yankee blockading squadron it was often worth more than a dollar a pound.

The United States government sent a naval and military force to Port Royal to occupy the harbor, and adjoining the islands, some fifteen or twenty miles from the mouth of the harbor, is the town of Beaufort, and one day during the early part of the war a steamer lay at the wharf taking on cotton. A man on the deck was watching a gang of negroes rolling the bales aboard. A long, thin man with lean cheeks and a tuft of beard on his chin and wearing a butternut suit came sauntering along and stood looking on the loading.

"Are yo' the cap'n o' this hyar ship?" he said to the man on deck.

"I am."

"I'm lookin' for transportation. I want to git out o' this dod rotted Yankee ridden country. I've sold out my little plantation and put the money into cotton. I got twenty bales."

"Don't you know that the Lincoln government won't let any cotton leave the Confederacy?"

"You don't say so!"

"Yes. I'll take your cotton for you, but there's a big chance of its being captured by a Yankee gunboat lying off the mouth of the harbor. If so it will be confiscated."

"Wal, now, I reckon that's infringin' with a man's natural rights."

"But if you get it through, if it's sea island cotton, you'll make a small fortune out of it."

"Well?"

"If yo' want to take the risk I'll carry it for you for 25 per cent of what yo' sell it for."

"Yo' goin' to carry over this what yo' talkin' about?"

"I'm goin' to try."

"I'm afraid I mought lose my cotton."

"In that case yo' better not risk it."

"But yo' say yo' goin' to risk it with yo' cotton."

"I am."

"What yo' paintin' yo' ship that color fo'?"

"That's the color of a fog. I shall not go to sea till I can get a misty night. That gray paint is exactly the shade of a misty morning just befo' day."

A bargain was struck between the two, the captain agreeing to take the lean man and his cotton to England for 25 per cent of its value in Liverpool provided the blockade could be run safely. The twenty bales were taken to the wharf and rolled aboard. The owner remained ashore till a foggy night should enable the ship to get to sea, there being five chances of success to one of capture.

Finally an east wind brought in murky weather, and the captain told his passenger that there was a prospect of her getting out early the next morning. The latter went aboard with his baggage, a hair trunk, a handbag and a leather case evidently containing a musical instrument. But the captain, who was busy superintending getting the ship off, had no time to inspect the passenger's baggage.

Steaming down on to the broader waters the ship cast anchor between two Confederate forts on either shore to wait for an opportunity. There was considerable wind and rain during the night, but nothing to conceal a ship. About 7 o'clock in the morning the wind lulled and a dense fog settled down. The captain concluded to try to slip out between the gunboats outside the harbor. Just before the fog shut everything from view he took his bearings from his compass and, with speed only sufficient for steerage way, aided by an outgoing tide, drifted to the harbor's mouth.

On passing out a dim bulk appeared on his port quarter. He knew that it was a blockader, but he had the advantage of his ship's being the color of the mist, and he passed safely. Half an hour passed, and he was congratulating himself on having cleared the blockading ships, when from below there arose the resonant sound of a bugle. Rushing down the companionway, he followed the sound, which led him to his passenger's stateroom. The man was practicing on a cornet. The captain with a blow sent it scurrying on the floor.

"You idiot!" he exclaimed. "What do you mean?"

"What do yo' mean yo'self? I always practice at this time o' the mornin'."

"Fool! Do you want to lose your cotton?"

Through a porthole they heard "Ship ahoy!" then "Heave to!" and the captain knew it was all over. They were in possession of a Yankee gunboat.

The lean man was a Connecticut Yankee, and his prize money for his services amounted to $100,000. He had obtained a commission from Washington to prevent blockade running and had been furnished with means that enabled him to carry out his purpose in his own way.

PROMINENT PEOPLE WEDDED IN DAYTONA

MRS. DORA B. BANTA AND CHAS. S. MILLS MARRIED AT PRINCE GEORGE HOTEL AT 2 O'CLOCK THIS AFTERNOON.

Mrs. Dora B. Banta and Charles S. Mills were united in marriage at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon at the Prince George hotel, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Dr. Robert McKay, rector of St. Mary's Episcopal church of this city.

The ceremony took place in the music room of the hotel, which had been beautifully decorated for the event with a profusion of flowers and greenery. Only relatives and a few close friends of the couple were present.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served and Mr. and Mrs. Mills later completed arrangements to leave by train at 3:59 for New York, where they will make their home, stopping enroute north at various places.

Mr. Mills, who came to Daytona recently and has been a guest at the Prince George, is at the head of the efficiency department of the American Type Founders company, of Jersey City, N. J.

The bride, who is well known to many Daytonians, having visited here in other seasons, is Mrs. W. W. Hilyard's mother, and is associated with Mr. Hilyard in the ownership and management of the Bristol hotel at Asbury Park, N. J.

"Yes. I'll take your cotton for you, but there's a big chance of its being captured by a Yankee gunboat lying off the mouth of the harbor. If so it will be confiscated."

"Waal, now, I reckon that's interferin' with a man's nateral rights."

"But if you git it through, if it's sea island cotton, you'll make a small fortune out of it."

"Well?"

"If yo' want to take the risk I'll carry it for you for 20 per cent of what yo' sell it for."

"Yo' goin' to carry over this what yo' takin' aboa'd?"

"I'm goin' to try."

"I'm afeard I mought lose my cotton."

"In that case yo' bette' not risk it."

"But yo' say yo' goin' to risk it with yo' cotton."

"I am."

"What yo' paintin' yo' ship that colo' fo'?"

"That's the color of a fog. I shall not go to sea till I can git a misty night. That gray paint is exactly the shade of a misty mo'ning just befo' day."

A bargain was struck between the two, the captain agreeing to take the lean man and his cotton to England for 20 per cent of its value in Liverpool provided the blockade could be run safely. The twenty bales were taken to the wharf and rolled aboard. The owner remained ashore till a foggy night should enable the ship to get to sea, there being five chances of success to one of capture.

Finally an east wind brought in murky weather, and the captain told his passenger that there was a prospect of her getting out early the next morning. The latter went aboard with his baggage, a hair trunk, a bandbox and a leather case evidently containing a musical instrument. But the captain, who was busy superintending getting the ship off, had no time to inspect the passenger's baggage.

Steaming down on to the broader waters the ship cast anchor between two Confederate forts on either shore to wait for an opportunity. There were considerable wind and rain during the night, but nothing to conceal a ship. About 7 o'clock in the morning the wind lulled and a dense fog settled down. The captain concluded to try to slip out between the gunboats outside the harbor. Just before the fog shut everything from view he took his bearings from his compass and, with speed only sufficient for steerage way, aided by an outgoing tide, drifted to the harbor's mouth.

On passing out a dim bulk appeared on his port quarter. He knew that it was a blockader, but he had the advantage of his ship's being the color of the mist, and he passed safely. Half an hour passed, and he was congratulating himself on having cleared the blockading ships, when from below there arose the resonant sound of a bugle. Dashing down the companion way, he followed the sound, which led him to his passenger's stateroom. The man was practicing on a cornet. The captain with a blow sent it scurrying on the floor.

"You idiot!" he exclaimed. "What do you mean?"

"What do yo' mean yo'self? I always practice at this time o' the mornin'."

"Fool! Do you want to lose your cotton?"

Through a porthole they heard "Ship ahoy!" then "Heave to!" and the captain knew it was all over. They were in possession of a Yankee gunboat.

The lean man was a Connecticut Yankee, and his prize money for his services amounted to $100,000. He had obtained a commission from Washington to prevent blockade running and had been furnished with means that enabled him to carry out his purpose in his own way.

ALLANDALE.

ALLANDALE, Jan. 12.—Mrs. E. D. Chapman, of Cleveland, Ohio, arrived at Ye Inn on Friday of last week and will remain until she has made repairs at her old home at Spruce Creek, where she expects to locate permanently.

Dinner guests at Ye Inn on Sunday were Mrs. C. F. Taylor and daughter Winnifred, H. J. and Oscar [illegible] of DeLand, F. F. Zimmerman and wife, Port Orange, H. Zimmerman and wife, of Chicago, Ill., Paul [illegible], Mrs. and Miss Brock, Mrs. [illegible], Miss [illegible], J. W. Rikeman and wife, A. G. Hicks and wife. Ye Inn Sunday dinners are becoming very popular and deservingly so.

Mrs. K. G. Child, of Wilmington, Del., has moved into her bungalow, The Las Palmas, on the riverside, and is very much pleased.

On Thursday night of last week Mrs. Rikeman was pleasantly surprised when 24 of Allandale folks came in to celebrate her birthday. A pleasant evening was spent. Mr. and Mrs. [illegible] read several selections, and with the aid of a phonograph there was canned music and a general good time was had.

The 500 club meets this week at the clubhouse. The club has grown so large that none of the houses are large enough to hold the meetings, several couples coming down from Port Orange.

So many wet days is holding back the work on the extension of Ridgewood avenue, as well as all outside work, but the builders' force are finding enough inside work to keep them busy. Allandale is a busy spot in the building line. Some 25 men are employed here, besides the force under F. O. Sparkman working on the new streets.

Phil R. Spencer has bought two lots on Rodger avenue, and will build a home for himself this winter.

The autos are using Ridgewood avenue through Norwood and Allandale in preference to the river road on account of the narrowness of the road, as the shell for the widening of the road has not been spread. It is almost impossible for two cars to pass without one pulling out where it is soft, but the drive through Ridgewood is too pretty to be missed.

A number of lots changed hands last week and at an advanced price over last year, and the outlook now is that they will advance still further before the season is over. Now is a good time to invest in a homesite.

Test of Spiritual Life.

If we may take one test or sign by which to judge of advance in the spiritual life, it would be this—whether more and more calmness is being maintained in the midst of all the disturbances and troubles which are wont to come, which may ever be looked for in some form or other—whether there be peacefulness of mind, and order of thought in the midst of all that once too much distracted and agitated the soul.—T. JOSEPH McGLENNON, OF NEW YORK, HAS TRYING EXPERIENCE — WALKED FROM ST. AUGUSTINE WITHOUT FOOD.

Persons in the vicinity of the New Daytona theatre were startled Monday evening when a man dropped unconscious on the sidewalk in front of the playhouse. He was picked up and carried inside, where ineffectual efforts were made to revive him. Later he was removed to Dr. G. A. Klock's hospital, where it was ascertained that the unfortunate man was suffering from exhaustion and hunger. It was several hours before he regained sufficient mental or physical strength to talk intelligibly. When he did, however, he gave his name as Joseph S. McGlennon, and stated that his home is in New York city. He recently came by rail to St. Augustine in search of work but was disappointed. Running out of funds he concluded to try his luck in Daytona, and concluded to walk the entire distance, at the same period bearing a heavy suit case.

When McGlennon reached this city he had been without food for two days, much of the time of which he was exposed to a downpour of rain. The good care he is receiving at the hospital is rapidly bringing him around, and he will soon be able to get out again and hunt a position. He appears to be a man inured to the hardships he has recently endured.

BRUSSELS IS MEDIEVAL CITY

German Soldiers, Helmeted and Breast-Plated, Seen Everywhere About the Streets.

Brussels.—About the only modern suggestion at the beautiful Hotel de Ville, where helmeted, breast-plated German officers, some with fur dolmans and fur busbys, are reminders of pictures of medieval times, is the line of civilians who want permits to leave. The line is usually three abreast and stretches a hundred yards or more into the street. Permits are issued freely at fees of from three to eighteen francs each.

They Get no Milk.

Paris.—A cow strayed between French and German trenches, which were only 100 yards apart, and both sides agreed that whoever hit a horn first would be privileged to milk Bossy without molestation. The first shot came from the German lines and killed the cow.

Make Use of Cats.

Berlin.—By order of the mayor of Braunsberg, East Prussia, the cats are being thinned out and the army helped at the same time, the skins of the felines being used for body belts and mittens for the soldiers, who believe cat skins ward off rheumatism.

We All Know Them.

"There are certain people who eat well, drink well, and sleep well, but who, whenever they see a little work, immediately become ill."—The Greenwich Magistrate.

The Prophesied Completeness.

We rejoice in life because it seems to be carrying us somewhere; because its darkness seems to be rolling on toward light, and even its pain to be moving onward to a hidden joy. We bear with incompleteness because of the completion which is prophesied and hoped for.—Phillips Brooks.

Mrs. A. T. Morse, of Minneapolis, Minn., arrived in Daytona Monday afternoon and is a guest at the Magnolia hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew P. Freese, of Cairo, N. Y., whose arrival in Daytona was recently noted in this paper, are located at the Daytona apartments on South Palmetto avenue.

G. S. Brower and wife, of New York, who arrived late last evening, will, as usual, spend the season at the Morgan hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Brower are regular visitors at Daytona and have spent the last four or five seasons at the Morgan.

The Crystal orchestra has been engaged by Mrs. J. C. Howard, of the Howard hotel, to give Sunday evening concerts at that popular hostelry. The Howard is fortunate in securing this talented musical organization and the guests are delighted with the arrangements provided by Mrs. Howard.

Average Tobacco Consumption.

In the per capita consumption of tobacco Holland leads the world, with Belgium second and the United States third.

Lost Control.

Redd—Did you hear about my neighbor losing control of his automobile?

Greene—No, I didn't.

"Well, he did. The sheriff's got it now."

Cool.

Your golf enthusiast is a cucumber in some respects. While playing over a corporation course one evening I witnessed an amusing little incident which eloquently illustrates the golfing point of view. A ball driven from the tee sailed gracefully in the direction of the green and administered a hard knock on the unoffending cranium of a player who was studying his mashie shot a few yards from the green. "I'm very sorry my ball hit you," said the driver when he reached the offended one. Then, as he caught sight of his ball lying close to the hole, he ejaculated in a cheering voice: "Oh, it isn't so bad; I'm well up to the pin!"—Glasgow News.

Brave Woman Killed Lioness.

A trapper's wife, whose cabin is near Unionville, Nev., saved her own life and that of her three-year-old child by killing a big mountain lioness with a blow from a rifle after the animal, wounded, had charged her. Her husband trapped three lion cubs, and it is supposed they were the lioness' litter, and that she trailed him to the cabin. The woman saw the lioness watching the cabin, and called the baby, playing outside. Then she reached for a rifle. She took one shot at the lioness, but only wounded it. The animal then rushed at the woman, who, stepping back to give herself a clear swing with the rifle, brought the butt down on the head of the lioness, killing it.

Koenigsberg and Kant.

Koenigsberg did not treat its most famous citizen, Kant, any too generously in money matters. During the ten years spent as tutor in private families, Kant passed the whole of his long life in Koenigsberg, where he was born in 1724. During his early tenure of the chair of philosophy his sole emoluments consisted of £20 a year, a sack of wheat every month and sufficient firewood to warm his house in cold weather. On becoming rector of the university, only another £28 was added to his yearly stipend, so the greatest of all German philosophers was not much better off than the pastor of Goldsmith's "Deserted Village." However, in the latter years Kant's scanty means were supplemented by an annual allowance of £28 from the privy purse of Frederick the Great.—London Chronicle.

BRUSSELS IS MEDIEVAL CITY

German Soldiers, Helmeted and Breast-Plated, Seen Everywhere About the Streets.

Brussels.—About the only modern suggestion at the beautiful Hotel de Ville, where helmeted, breast-plated German officers, some with fur dolmans and fur busbys, are reminders of pictures of medieval times, is the line of civilians who want permits to leave. The line is usually three abreast and stretches a hundred yards or more into the street. Permits are issued freely at fees of from three to eighteen francs each.

They Got no Milk.

Paris.—A cow strayed between French and German trenches, which were only 100 yards apart, and both sides agreed that whoever hit a horn first would be privileged to milk Bossy without molestation. The first shot came from the German lines and killed the cow.

Make Use of Cats.

Berlin.—By order of the mayor of Brausberg, East Prussia, the cats are being thinned out and the army helped at the same time, the skins of the felines being used for body belts and mittens for the soldiers, who believe cat skins ward off rheumatism.

We All Know Them.

"There are certain people who eat well, drink well, and sleep well, but who, whenever they see a little work, immediately become ill."—The Greenwich Magistrate.

The Prophesied Completeness.

We rejoice in life because it seems to be carrying us somewhere; because its darkness seems to be rolling on toward light, and even its pain to be moving onward to a hidden joy. We bear with incompleteness because of the completion which is prophesied and hoped for.—Phillips Brooks.

Cool.

Your golf enthusiast is a cucumber in some respects. While playing over a corporation course one evening I witnessed an amusing little incident which eloquently illustrates the golfing point of view. A ball driven from the tee sailed gracefully in the direction of the green and administered a hard knock on the unoffending cranium of a player who was studying his mashie shot a few yards from the green. "I'm very sorry my ball hit you," said the driver when he reached the offended one. Then, as he caught sight of his ball lying close to the hole, he ejaculated in a cheering voice: "Oh, it isn't so bad; I'm well up to the pin!"—Glasgow News.

Brave Woman Killed Lioness.

A trapper's wife, whose cabin is near Unionville, Nev., saved her own life and that of her three-year-old child by killing a big mountain lioness with a blow from a rifle after the animal, wounded, had charged her. Her husband trapped three lion cubs, and it is supposed they were the lioness' litter, and that she trailed him to the cabin. The woman saw the lioness watching the cabin, and called the baby, playing outside. Then she reached for a rifle. She took one shot at the lioness, but only wounded it. The animal then rushed at the woman, who, stepping back to give herself a clear swing with the rifle, brought the butt down on the head of the lioness, killing it.

Koenigsberg and Kant.

Koenigsberg did not treat its most famous citizen, Kant, any too generously in money matters. Barring the ten years spent as tutor in private families, Kant passed the whole of his long life in Koenigsberg, where he was born in 1724. During his early tenure of the chair of philosophy his sole emoluments consisted of £20 a year, a sack of wheat every month and sufficient firewood to warm his house in cold weather. On becoming rector of the university, only another £20 was added to his yearly stipend, so the greatest of all German philosophers was not much better off than the pastor of Goldsmith's "Deserted Village." However, in the latter years Kant's scanty means were supplemented by an annual allowance of £26 from the privy purse of Frederick the Great.—London Chronicle.

LIME CAUSES BLAZE IN CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Salt in the United States.

The two chief methods depended on for obtaining salt are to mine rock salt and to evaporate salt-bearing solutions. Rock salt is obtained chiefly from deep shaft mines in the eastern, central and southern parts of the United States, active mines being located in New York, Michigan, Kansas and Louisiana. A comparatively small quantity is also obtained from surface deposits in the dry climates of Utah and California.

Why She Wrote a Novel

By F. A. MITCHEL

Miss Winifred Wells, who had written a novel under the name of Thomas Erskine Mortimer, received a letter one morning which read as follows:

Thomas Erskine Mortimer, Esq.:

Dear Sir—I write to ask you where you got the name of your hero, Edgar Wheatleigh? My name is Edgar Wheatleigh, and I am curious to know how you happened to hit upon it for your clearly drawn character. I am very truly yours,

EDGAR WHEATLEIGH.

Now, Miss Wells, a young lady of twenty-one summers, had taken the name from the city directory, and it occurred to her that it belonged to her correspondent. She was about to reply that she had done so when an idea popped into her head whereby she might have some fun. She wrote Mr Wheatleigh, signing herself Mortimer, that she had heard a friend speak of a Mr. Wheatleigh in high terms and had been given the salient points in his character, which she had embodied in her hero. This person of her novel was undoubtedly another than her questioner.

This brought a reply from Mr Wheatleigh giving a few points as to his antecedents with a view to discovering whether or not he was the hero of the novel. Miss Wells, affecting to be much surprised at the points he gave her, admitted that he was doubtless identical with the man who had been described to her. In this letter also she wrote under the guise of her nom de plume.

Mr Wheatleigh wrote again, asking for the name of the friend who had described him. The reply was that the writer was doubtful whether he should give the name. However, since his informer might not be the original observer he would strain a point and do so. The outline from which the character had been drawn was a Miss Winifred Wells. To this she added her address.

The next scene in this diminutive comedy was a call from Mr Wheatleigh. Miss Wells came down with his card in her hand looking very much pleased.

"It's a long while since we have met," she remarked. "You have grown from boy to man since I saw you last. I should not have known you."

Mr Wheatleigh in the novel was a copy of a grand gentleman character in one of Ouida's novels. He would not be so ungallant as to admit that he did not remember this friend of his childhood.

"I would know you," he said, "had I not had the slightest knowledge of your identity. The only reason I might not have recognized you is that from a rather pretty child you have grown to be a superb woman."

Miss Wells was not only delighted with her device, but with a man of such unblushing assurance.

"But how," she asked, "have you found me out after all these years?"

"In a very singular way. My friend Tom Mortimer wrote a novel naming one of his characters for me. When I asked him how he learned certain features concerning me, the original of his character, he said that they had been given him by an old friend of mine, Winnie Wells."

This came very near being too much for the audience, but she repressed her mirth.

"How long have you known Tom?" she asked.

"Tom? Why, I have known him ever since we were little toddlers together, our homes having adjoined each other."

"Did he say I gave you any points as to your character?"

Mr Wheatleigh, though a [illegible], was, so far as his own merits were concerned, a modest one. He said that Tom had endowed him with traits he did not possess. Nevertheless he knew that Miss Wells had spoken very highly of him. He was bent on knowing who she was and what had been the child connection between them, but although he beat the bush incessantly he uncovered nothing. At last Miss Wells gave him all the information he wished and more, too, had he known it was manufactured.

"You have evidently forgotten what passed between us the night you went away," she said, revealing what it was by dropping her eyes to the floor.

"Forgotten it! I shall never forget it. What I said then I repeat now. I am as unchanged as the rocks."

"Then why did you never write?"

"Why didn't I write? Why, for the best of reasons. I broke my right arm three days after we parted."

Miss Wells burst into a laugh that made the house ring. When it subsided she told Mr Wheatleigh the whole story. He was as much delighted with it as she was with the success of her trick.

"Well," he said when it was all out, "for once in my life I'm a hero—the hero of a story. What I said when last we met I repeat now. I said then that you were the girl for me, and I say it now. I'll have no other. I swear it."

Miss Wells laughed again, taking the declaration as a matter of gallantry. And so it was at the time intended. But the acquaintance having been thus pleasantly formed was continued. Mr Wheatleigh insisted on the authoress making him the hero of a novel. She declined to do this, but the matter was finally compromised by his making her his wife. He now accuses her of having written a novel for no other purpose than to secure a husband.

RAILWAYS WANT 25 PER CENT INCREASE

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. — The new freight rates respecting less than carload lots, when consolidated on lines west of the Mississippi and east of the Rockies become effective today. It prevents the consolidation at carload rates, making a virtual increase of 25 per cent. It is believed that the Inter-State Commerce commission will limit the increase to 5 or 10 per cent.

Salt in the United States.

The two chief methods depended on for obtaining salt are to mine rock salt and to evaporate salt-bearing solutions. Rock salt is obtained chiefly from deep shaft mines in the eastern, central and southern parts of the United States, active mines being located in New York, Michigan, Kansas and Louisiana. A comparatively small quantity is also obtained from surface deposits in the dry climates of Utah and California.

Why She Wrote a Novel

By F. A. MITCHEL

Miss Winifred Wells, who had written a novel under the name of Thomas Erskine Mortimer, received a letter one morning which read as follows:

> Thomas Erskine Mortimer, Esq.:
>
> Dear Sir—I write to ask you where you got the name of your hero, Edgar Wheatleigh? My name is Edgar Wheatleigh, and I am curious to know how you happened to hit upon it for your clearly drawn character I am very truly yours.
>
> EDGAR WHEATLEIGH.

Now, Miss Wells, a young lady of twenty-one summers, had taken the name from the city directory, and it occurred to her that it belonged to her correspondent. She was about to reply that she had done so when an idea popped into her head whereby she might have some fun. She wrote Mr. Wheatleigh, signing herself Mortimer, that she had heard a friend speak of a Mr. Wheatleigh in high terms and had been given the salient points in his character, which she had embodied in her hero. This person of her novel was undoubtedly another than her questioner

This brought a reply from Mr. Wheatleigh giving a few points as to his antecedents with a view to discovering whether or not he was the hero of the novel. Miss Wells, affecting to be much surprised at the points he gave her, admitted that he was doubtless identical with the man who had been described to her. In this letter also she wrote under the guise of her nom de plume.

Mr. Wheatleigh wrote again, asking for the name of the friend who had described him. The reply was that the writer was doubtful whether he should give the name. However, since his informer might not be the original observer he would strain a point and do so. The outline from which the character had been drawn was a Miss Winifred Wells. To this she added her address.

The next scene in this diminutive comedy was a call from Mr. Wheatleigh. Miss Wells came down with his card in her hand looking very much pleased.

"It's a long while since we have met," she remarked. "You have grown from boy to man since I saw you last I should not have known you."

Mr. Wheatleigh in the novel was a copy of a grand gentleman character in one of Ouida's novels. He would not be so ungallant as to admit that he did not remember this friend of his childhood.

"I would know you," he said, "had I not had the slightest knowledge of your identity. The only reason I might not have recognized you is that from a rather pretty child you have grown to be a superb woman."

Miss Wells was not only delighted with her device, but with a man of such unblushing assurance.

"But how," she asked, "have you found me out after all these years?"

"In a very singular way. My friend Tom Mortimer wrote a novel naming one of his characters for me. When I asked him how he learned certain features concerning me, the original of his character, he said that they had been given him by an old friend of mine. Winnie Wells."

This came very near being too much for the authoress, but she repressed her mirth.

"How long have you known Tom?" she asked

"Tom? Why, I have known him ever since we were little toddlers together, our homes having adjoined each other."

"Did he say I gave you any points as to your character?"

Mr. Wheatleigh, though a scamp, was, so far as his own merits were concerned, a modest one. He said that Tom had endowed him with traits he did not possess. Nevertheless he knew that Miss Wells had spoken very highly of him. He was bent on knowing who she was and what had been this child connection between them; but although he beat the bush incessantly he uncovered nothing. At last Miss Wells gave him all the information he wished and more, too, had he known it was manufactured.

"You have evidently forgotten what passed between us the night you went away," she said, revealing what it was by dropping her eyes to the floor.

"Forgotten it! I shall never forget it. What I said then I repeat now. I am as unchanged as the rocks."

"Then why did you never write?"

"Why didn't I write? Why, for the best of reasons. I broke my right arm three days after we parted."

Miss Wells burst into a laugh that made the house ring. When it subsided she told Mr. Wheatleigh the whole story. He was as much delighted with it as she was with the success of her trick.

"Well," he said when it was all out, "for once in my life I'm a hero—the hero of a story. What I said when last we met I repeat now. I said then that you were the girl for me, and I say it now. I'll have no other I swear it."

Miss Wells laughed again, taking the declaration as a matter of gallantry. And so it was at the time intended. But the acquaintance having been thus pleasantly formed was continued. Mr. Wheatleigh insisted on the authoress making him the hero of a novel. She declined to do this, but the matter was finally compromised by his making her his wife. He now accuses her of having written a novel for no other purpose than to secure a husband.

SOME BALL GAME WHEN CLARENDON MEETS ORMOND

That the base ball game scheduled for next Thursday afternoon between the clerks of the Clarendon and Ormond hotels at the latter place, will be some contest, there is not the slightest doubt, if one can judge from past performances of these teams.

The line-up of the teams which are to fight it out to the bitter end on Thursday, follows:

Clarendon		Ormond
Kane	catcher	Tully
Connelly	pitcher	Campbell
Harrison	1st base	McKenna
White	2d base	Chase
Johnson	3d base	Morrison
Looby	short stop	Meyer
Jasper	right field	Murphy
McLaughlin	center field	Stinson

O'Hare, substitute.

Jimmy Archer, of the Chicago Cubs, will act as coach for the Ormond boys, and Henry Conley will be the official umpire. Games will be played once a week by these teams throughout the season, and a handsome silver cup will go to the team winning the greatest number of games.

It is needless to say that both clubs possess some rare base ball material, some of which has been developed and others are only making their debut this season. Catcher Kane is an old timer at the game, being captain and manager of the Bretton Woods, N. H., team, and Short Stop Looby is an ex-member of the New England base ball league. Thursday's game is called for 3:30 o'clock.

◆

John Kennedy, a great Clarendon admirer, who finds time to get away from the big city on Manhattan Island every year about this time, was seen shaking the hand of old friends at the hotel yesterday.

SADDLE HORSE DEPARTMENT IN CHARGE OF FRANK ENNIS

Frank Ennis, an expert riding master, of Newburg, New York, is this year in charge of the saddle horse department at the Clarendon hotel. He has seven as fine mounts as ever worked under a saddle, and anyone who dares to doubt this assertion has but to try it out. All the animals are for hire, with or without instructor, and the rates are very reasonable. Instructor Ennis has had several years experience in some of the largest riding academies in the north and comes to Florida highly recommended. In addition to having thoroughbred stock, the Clarendon stable is supplied with everything that goes to make up a strictly first class saddle livery equipment.

GUESTS RAPIDLY ARRIVING SHOW GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

The number of guests registered at the Clarendon to date shows an increase of 15 over last year for the corresponding date. Reservations made early in the season are now being taken rapidly and by the end of the week it is expected that a considerable number from New York and Chicago will have taken up their reservations for the winter season.

H. M. DINGLEY AND FAMILY OCCUPYING PARK COTTAGE

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Dingley, child and nurse, and Mrs. Dingley, widow of the late ex-Governor Dingley, of Maine, are pleasantly located for the season in the Park cottage, adjoining the hotel on the south. The famous Dingley tariff bill was fathered and became a law through the efforts of ex-Governor Dingley, who was one of the greatest statesmen ever produced in the state of Maine.

CLARENDON ORCHESTRA ATTRACTING MUCH ATTENTION

Sigmund Newman, one of Prof. Tucker's Clarendon musicians, has especially delighted his audiences at the hotel of late with selections on the saxophone. The orchestra, which is this year composed of seven talented musicians, occupies a place in the south end of the lobby and the saxophonist from a balcony nearby plays the solo parts. This is not customary but su h unusual features serve to attract all lovers of good music and the manner in which the Clarendon boys have been received this season bespeak their ultimate popularity when the audiences run up into the hundreds instead of scores, as at the present time. Other high class members of the orchestra include Alfred Adler, piano; Elias Zemsky, violin; Frank A. Krohe, cello; Aaron Grodner, claronet; Chas. Costello, string bass.

◆

Frank Taft, of New York City, is a recent arrival as is also Dr. and Mrs. T. S. Mitchell, of the same city, who are her for the season. Mr. and Mrs. George Ames, of Nahant, Mass., are among the new comers at the hotel, and Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Corwin and maid, of Dayton, Ohio, are late arrivals. The Corwins are regular seasons guests at the big hotel, and this year will be no exception to the rule.

◆

Among the latest guests now seen in the lobby of the big hotel by the sea are Mr. and Mrs. George Allen, who came in by train Saturday from Akron, Ohio. Their automobile and chauffeur is expected to reach Seabreeze today.

Talented Youth.

GOLF LINKS, TENNIS COURTS AND CLOCK GOLF DIALS NOW READY

The Clarendon golf links, tennis courts and clock golf dials are being rapidly put in condition for the coming season so that when the big rush comes lovers of these outdoor diversions will have quite a variety from which to choose. Last season's demand for clock golf by Clarendon patrons reached such a high pitch that the management decided to provide additional grounds, and this year two dials instead of one will be in operation. A. J. Christie, of Manchester, N. H., is serving in the capacity of golf instructor this year, and the links are being brought to a state of perfection under his skillful supervision. Three tennis courts will furnish no end of amusement for the younger elements of both sexes.

MRS. POTTER'S THOROUGHBRED IN EXCELLENT CONDITION

"Lady Dick," the thoroughbred saddle horse belonging to Mrs. Potter, was shipped from Bretton Woods, N. H., on January 4, and is expected to arrive in Daytona today. While up in New Hampshire last summer Lady Dick was permitted to roam about the pasture much of the time and the effects of a free and easy life has served to put the animal in the finest condition for a more strenuous life in Florida this winter. Mrs. Potter, who is an ardent admirer of horse flesh, spends considerable time in the saddle and Lady Dick, although high spirited, seems never to tire of continuous work under the rein of Mrs. Potter.

HOW MANY TIMES HAVE YOU SAID

"IF I HAD ONLY BOUGHT LOTS OVER ON THE BEACH WHEN I FIRST CAME HERE I MIGHT HAVE BEEN RICH TODAY. I COULD HAVE BOUGHT ACRES FOR THE PRICE AT WHICH SINGLE LOTS ARE SELLING TODAY. ACREAGE CANNOT BE BOUGHT AT ANY PRICE. WHAT A FOOL I WAS." LET US POINT OUT A WAY FOR YOU TO GET IN AND MAKE UP.

DID YOU IMAGINE SUCH A THING AS A STREET CAR LINE TO THE BEACH FIVE YEARS AGO? PERHAPS YOU DID IMAGINE IT—IT IS A REALITY NOW. WOULD YOU HAVE BEGGED, BORROWED, OR ARRANGED IN SOME WAY TO GET HOLD OF ENOUGH MONEY TO BUY SOME BEACH PROPERTY, COULD YOU HAVE BEEN ASSURED THAT A CAR LINE WAS GOING TO BE BUILT TO YOUR PROPERTY? IF ANYONE COULD HAVE TOLD YOU POSITIVELY THAT THE CLARENDON HOTEL WAS GOING TO BE BUILT WHERE IT IS, WOULD YOU NOT HAVE DONE LIKEWISE, BOUGHT ALL THE PROPERTY POSSIBLE, ACCORDING TO YOUR MEANS? COULD ANYONE HAVE ASSURED YOU THAT THE NAUTILUS PROPERTY WAS TO BE IMPROVED AS IT IS TODAY—THAT A BASEBALL PARK WAS TO BE BUILT WHERE IT IS, WOULD YOU NOT HAVE BOUGHT ALL THE PROPERTY YOU COULD HAVE GOT HOLD OF?

THE STREET CAR LINE IS NOW BEING EXTENDED THROUGH OCEAN VIEW HEIGHTS, WHICH WILL PUT IT WITHIN TWELVE MINUTES' RIDE OF DOWNTOWN. COMPARE THE PRICES OF SEABREEZE LOTS WITH THE PRICES WE ARE ASKING FOR OCEAN VIEW HEIGHTS LOTS. WE ARE OFFERING THE OCEAN FRONT LOTS, WHICH ARE FIFTY BY THREE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FOUR, AT SIX HUNDRED AND NINETY-FIVE DOLLARS EACH, WHILE THE INSIDE LOTS, FIFTY BY ONE HUNDRED AND FORTY, ARE OFFERED AT ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY DOLLARS EACH. A TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT PAYMENT IS ALL THAT IS REQUIRED DOWN, WITH EASY TERMS.

WERE WE TO PREDICT THAT WITHIN A FEW YEARS THE ENTIRE BEACH WILL HAVE A BOARD-WALK WITH AN OCEAN PIER, LARGE HOTELS, WHICH WILL COMPARE FAVORABLY WITH THOSE OF ATLANTIC CITY. THAT STREET CAR LINES WILL CONNECT WITH DELAND, NEW SMYRNA, SANFORD, ORLANDO AND OTHER INTERIOR POINTS, YOU WOULD CALL US DREAMERS, BUT WE ARE PREDICTING JUST THAT VERY THING. NOW THINK OF WHAT THIS WILL MEAN TO THE PROPERTY ON THE BEACH. NOW IS THE TIME, MR. READER, TO GET IN ON THE GROUND FLOOR WHILE THESE PRICES ARE REDICULOUSLY LOW, FOR WHEN ALL THESE THINGS SHALL HAVE TAKEN PLACE THE PRICES NATURALLY WILL BE WAY UP, AND YOU SHOULD BE THE ONE TO REAP THE BENEFIT, FOR ONCE IN YOUR LIFE PUT YOURSELF IN THE POSITION WHERE THE OTHER FELLOW WILL HAVE TO SAY, "YOU HAVE MADE A LOT OF MONEY ON LOTS WHICH YOU WERE FARSIGHTED ENOUGH TO PURCHASE WHEN THE PRICES WERE LOW."

IT'S NOT LUCK—IT IS JUST GOOD BUSINESS SENSE—TAKING ADVANTAGE OF AN OPPORTUNITY—AN OPPORTUNITY THAT DOES NOT COME EVERY DAY, AND YOU SHOULD NOT DELAY. IT WILL BE A PLEASURE TO DEMONSTRATE THE PROPERTY TO YOU, IF YOU WILL GIVE US THE OPPORTUNITY, AND TELL YOU OF THE CONTEMPLATED IMPROVEMENTS AND ANY FURTHER PARTICULARS THAT YOU MAY DESIRE. NOW IS THE TIME TO INVESTIGATE. OPPORTUNITY IS KNOCKING AT YOUR DOOR. DON'T PASS IT UP.

CZAR RENEWS EFFORTS TO TAKE GALICIAN CITY

PETROGRAD, JAN. 12.—THE RUSSIANS HAVE RESUMED THE OFFENSIVE AGAINST CRACOW, GALICIA, AND HAVE ATTACKED THE AUSTRO-GERMAN FORCES ON THE WEST BANK OF THE DUNAJEC RIVER. FIGHTING WEST OF WARSAW IS FIERCER THAN IT HAD BEEN AT ANY TIME BEFORE. THE VILLAGE OF SANICA CHANGED HANDS THREE TIMES SUNDAY. THE GERMANS NOW HOLD THE WESTERN PORTION OF THE VILLAGE, WHILE THE RUSSIANS ARE IN POSSESSION OF THE EASTERN SECTION. THE GERMANS ARE USING MASS FORMATION AND HAVE SUFFERED TERRIFIC LOSSES.

FRENCH AND RUSSIANS SUFFER.

BERLIN, Jan. 12 (Via wireless).—It was officially stated this afternoon that the Germans repulsed an attempt of the Russians to advance in northern Poland. The latter suffered severe losses.

The French lost heavily in making a night attack on the Germans south of Cernay. The armies have been engaged in hand-to-hand fiighting for several days.
